

The Little Red Hen

A little red hen found some seeds, and asked,
"Who will help me plant them?"

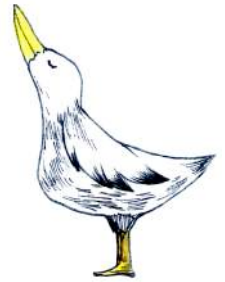

"Not I," barked a dog.

"Not I," purred a cat.

"Not I," quacked a duck.

"Then I will," said the hen.

So she planted them.

When all the seeds had grown, the little red hen asked,
"Who will help me bake the bread?"

"Not I," barked the dog.

"Not I," purred the cat.

"Not I," quacked the duck.

"Then I will," said the hen.

So she baked it.

When the bread was finished, the tired little red hen asked,
"Who will help me eat it?"

"I will," barked the dog.

"I will," purred the cat.

"I will," quacked the duck.

"No!" said the hen, "I will."

And the little red hen ate the bread, all by herself.

